OVERVIEW AND MISSION
The Campbell University School of Education, formally established in December of 1985, is an integral part of the university community. It provides coherence and administrative integrity to Professional Education and three other service-oriented professional programs: family and consumer sciences, psychology, and social work. Fully consistent with the mission of the University, the School of Education’s mission is to provide a developmental sequence of educational experiences that blends the theoretical, the professional, and the practical for those who plan to work primarily in rural settings. The first part of the sequence prepares students for entry into education, social work, family and consumer sciences, and applied fields of psychology.
Students with undergraduate degrees in education and related areas may continue their studies through the master’s level. The overall goal of the advanced programs is to provide a progressively more sophisticated sequence of opportunities to develop theoretical insights, specialized knowledge and skills, and an understanding of the best professional practices in teaching, counseling, and school administration.

PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAMS

Accreditation:

For information regarding Campbell University accreditations, please visit www.campbell.edu/accreditation

Statement of Student Responsibilities

Students enrolled in any graduate program in the School of Education have the following responsibilities:

- To assume the primary responsibility for directing and monitoring his or her educational program. This includes seeking out information, advice, and experiences needed to meet personal educational goals. Although professors, advisors, and staff members are expected to provide guidance, the student is normally expected to take the initiative in seeking out such information and assistance.

- To become familiar with the content of the official bulletin that describes their contract with the University and specifically the School of Education. They must also attend to the manual(s), memoranda, and forms pertinent to their programs. They should also seek out ways to remedy any personal or academic deficiencies and weaknesses. In addition, they should take the initiative in setting up conferences for academic program and career planning. It is strongly recommended that students maintain their own records that, to the degree possible, duplicate the files maintained in the Dean’s office.

- To be aware of the rules and regulations concerning the use of University computing, library, and other facilities, as set out in published material.

- To meet deadlines for work to be submitted.

- To submit original work for assessment without plagiarizing or cheating. The honor code for the School of Education graduate students defines cheating on exams and plagiarism and describes the consequences of such infractions (1) being dropped from the class, (2) receiving an “F” for the course, (3) being removed from the graduate program, (4) having the matter referred to the Dean and the Executive Council, and (5) having a report inserted in the cumulative file.

Statement of Sanctions
(Applicable to degree and non-degree students)

Warning:
Notification of the student by the Dean of the School of Education that continuation or repetition of specified conduct may be cause for other disciplinary action. A warning is not appealable.

Suspension:
Forced withdrawal from the University for a specified period of time, including exclusion from classes, termination of student status and all related privileges and activities, and exclusion from the campus if set forth in the notice of suspension. If a student, while on suspension, violates any of the terms set forth in the notice of suspension, the student shall be subject to further discipline in the form of dismissal.

Dismissal:
Dismissal is the exclusion from the campus and termination of student status for an indefinite period. The conditions for reconsideration for readmission will be specified at the time of dismissal. The student may be readmitted to the University only with the specified approval of the Dean of the School of Education upon the recommendation of the Area Coordinator of the program in which the student was enrolled.

Appeals Process
(Applicable to degree and non-degree students)

Academic Cases and Academic Violations
Dean of the School of Education

Education Council

Area Coordinator

Graduate Student's Appeal

Student appeals on academic issues are first taken to the instructor if the matter is one concerning a course. Next, the area coordinator should be consulted. If the matter cannot be resolved at these levels, it must be taken to the Dean. If the appeal is complex in nature or falls outside the established rules and procedures of the School of Education, the Dean refers the appeal to the Education Council, which is composed of the Dean, program area representatives, chairs of the major School of Education committees, and a representative from the College of Arts and Sciences.

The advisor may serve as a resource for resolving academic issues and may be utilized by the student, instructor, coordinator, and/or Dean as appropriate. Student appeals on admission are heard by the appropriate admissions committee, which is made up of the Dean, the Director of Graduate Admissions, and a representative from the student's program area.

COUNSELOR EDUCATION PROGRAM

The counselor education program at Campbell University serves a diverse group of graduate students, the majority of who are interested in becoming professional counselors. A masters-level program only is offered. The counseling program is premised on the same set of basic principles that guide all of Campbell's education programs:

A. A knowledge base that comprises ten domains-

   - Theoretical Foundations
   - Research and Evaluation Methods
   - Contexts
   - Practice
   - Ethics
   - Professional Skills
   - Curriculum
   - Content Disciplines;
   - Diversity
   - Technology

B. A commitment to the concept of the counseling professional as problem solver; and

C. A developmental remedial approach to designing and implementing counseling programs.

example, is addressed by five required courses. By contrast, the content disciplines domain is not applicable because all students enter the program with at least a B.A. or B.S. degree and also because the counselor education program is not oriented to further development of content discipline knowledge for teaching or supervision.

Counseling Program Mission and Objectives

PROGRAM MISSION

The comprehensive mission of the Program in Counselor Education at Campbell University is to serve a diverse population of students representing a variety of cultural dimensions, lifestyles, and capabilities. The priority of the faculty is to train competent, ethical, and knowledgeable graduate practitioners and educators with oversight in the areas of School Counseling and Clinical Mental Health Counseling at the entry/Master’s-degree level.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

The Program in Counselor Education is committed to offering a quality program of teaching, research, and service for students enrolled in the program and ultimately for the benefit of the clients/individuals they serve. With a strong belief in the human dignity of the individual, program faculty in Counselor Education seek to offer students the opportunity to grow and develop to their fullest potential and to promote this attitude as the basis for their service to clients. This notion is a core principle for counseling.

The complexity of contemporary life requires that helpers be trained and specialized. This program acts on the assumption that skills and competencies of counseling can be taught and critically reviewed. In addition to teaching counseling skills, program faculty assumes responsibility to create opportunities for personal growth and development for students enrolled in the various programs of study. Through careful attention to ethical standards and professional acculturation, we act to model and facilitate the conceptualization of a professional role for program graduates. Finally, the program encourages students to develop attitudes, values, and beliefs that enhance their abilities to work with others in the helping process.

The specific objectives identified by the Program in Counselor Education are to:

1. Recruit and select qualified graduate students, with attention given to the inclusion of candidates from culturally diverse and underrepresented populations;

2. Offer a graduate curriculum of didactic courses, practicum and other clinical experiences, and internships which reflect the preparation standards of the profession;
3. Teach graduate level counselors, supervisors, and educators the knowledge, skills, practices, attitudes, and philosophical orientation to facilitate their working effectively in a pluralistic society and with culturally diverse populations;

4. Use outcomes-based standards across program areas, with an overall comprehensive assessment plan in place to assess student learning;

5. Provide specialized programs for the preparation of professional counselors for a wide variety of public and private educational and human service settings;

6. Collaborate with schools and service agencies in planning, in evaluating, and in providing experiential opportunities for counseling students;

7. Provide students with research skills reflecting their levels of preparation and instilling commitment to the pursuit of scholarly research;

8. Provide students with a framework for understanding and addressing professional, ethical, and legal issues, and using appropriate decision-making processes;

9. Promote students’ knowledge, identity, and appreciation of professional associations and active professional memberships for personal and professional growth;

10. Assist graduates and employers in the identification of appropriate placement opportunities;

11. Gauge the mission of the program by developing and implementing planned procedures for the systematic evaluation of program outcomes, and program evaluation;

12. Require the use of technology to assist in counseling, program delivery, and technology’s impact on the counseling profession;

13. Employ an overall comprehensive assessment plan for the master’s degree;

14. Infuse current knowledge and skills for highly competent counseling practice in a multicultural and pluralistic society;

15. Use measureable outcomes to evaluate work with clients and to evaluate counseling services and programs;
16. Promote knowledge and skills for working with individuals experiencing crises and traumatic events and circumstances;

17. Provide common core curricular experiences and demonstrate knowledge in all eight CACREP common core curricular areas: professional orientation and ethical practice, social and cultural diversity, human growth and development, career development, helping relationships, group work, assessment, and research and program evaluation; and

18. Provide curricular experiences and demonstrate knowledge in the ten CORE curriculum areas: professional identity and ethical behavior; psychosocial aspects of disability and cultural diversity; human growth and development; employment and career development; counseling approaches and principles; group work and family dynamics; assessment; research and program evaluation; medical, functional, and environmental aspects of disability; and rehabilitation services, case management, and related services.

COUNSELOR LICENSURE:

Students entering the counseling programs need to understand the North Carolina statutes as they apply to the field of counseling. There are two official state bodies, which control the practice of counseling.

1. School Counselor Licensure. Licensure as a school counselor may be obtained by: (a) completing Campbell University's school counseling program, (b) satisfactory performance on the Praxis II Specialty Area test in Professional School Counseling, and (c) official verification from Campbell University. Information can be found at NCDPI.

2. Professional Counselor Licensure. To become a Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC) in North Carolina the student must complete a Master's degree in counseling, (b) obtain a satisfactory score on the National Counseling Examination (NCE) or National Clinical Mental Health Counseling Examination (NCMHCE), (c) the jurisprudence exam is required for licensure application and must be taken within six months prior to application to the Board; (d) submit application to become an LPCA in order to complete required supervised hours totaling 3,000. Please be aware that currently, each state has its own specific requirements for licensure.
Students should contact the State Licensing Board in the State in which they plan to seek licensure after graduation for specific details. Information about pursuing the LPC in North Carolina can be found at http://www.ncblpc.org.

Campbell counselor education students are offered the opportunity to take the National Counselor Examination for Licensure and Certification (NCE). Most states use the NCE as part of their credentialing or licensure process. NCE results are used as criteria for evaluating counselors who desire to become National Certified Counselors (NCCs).

PROFESSIONAL ORGANIZATIONS

Students and graduates are encouraged to join and to become active in professional organizations or associations. One method to remain current in the profession is by participating in professional organizations (presenting at various conferences, serving on committees, writing for professional journals, attending workshops, and becoming active in leadership). There are many benefits derived from membership in a professional organization. As a member of a professional organization, the student:

1. Receives the most recent publications.
2. Is entitled to reduced membership rates and reduced registration rates for professional meetings/workshops.
3. Is eligible for such membership services as professional liability insurance, legal defense fund, library resource use, etc.
4. Has a method of direct involvement with activities and issues pertinent to the profession?
5. Is affiliated with other professionals having interests and areas of similar expertise.
6. Has a way to stay up-to-date in the knowledge, practices, and research findings in the field.

American Counseling Association (ACA)

Campbell University Student Assessment Plan

Tier/Transition One - Entrance to Student

1. Admissions criteria: Application/nominal fee, 3 References, GRE scores, undergrad transcripts/GPA
   - Interview
   - Enrollment/Registration
   - New Student Orientation
   - Faculty Advising (beginning of first semester)

2. Maintain a 3.0 GPA with no more than 2 “C’s” throughout tenure in program; 3 “C’s” and the student is dismissed from the program and can reapply after 1 year.

Tier/Transition Two – Student to Candidate

For each activity in Tier Two, Student X is evaluated by faculty and/or site supervisors using a rubric on a 4-point Likert scale (1= deficient; 4= exceptional). This allows quantitative data to be entered into the assessment system (TK20) to track individual student learning outcomes.
1. A Student Competency Progress Assessment will take place during the counseling skills course (CEDU 645). Students meet with the professor to discuss progress in three different areas: completion and quality of academic assignments; professional growth and development; and counseling competencies. The professor shares strengths and areas for growth with the student. This is done once at mid-term and at the end of the course. A student cannot receive below a “B.” Receiving below a “B” results in the student retaking the course before moving into Practicum.

2. Advancement to Practicum (Candidacy) application is/can be completed after 30 credit hours for School Counseling Students and 43 credit hours for Clinical Mental Health Counseling students in addition to course prerequisites. This application consists of the student completing a one-page reflective paper on three areas: academic progress, personal progress, and professional progress. The student is also required to complete a practicum/internship proposal.

3. Students are held to high academic and professional standards within the program. These standards are guided by the university academic requirements, Performance Standards and the Code of Ethics for their respective professional associations (ACA, ASCA). At each faculty meeting, a portion of the meeting is set aside to discuss any faculty member’s student concerns. If a persistent problem arises, the faculty member meets with the student to discuss the concern, and the student has the opportunity to address the concerns raised. There are times when the instructor may have specific additional outcomes for the student to complete, such as:
   • Referral for student services: writing center, tutoring, study skills, and other academic support;
   • Additional coursework/assignments, such as practicum and internship hours;
   • Referral for counseling;
   • Leave of absence for a specified period of time for student to handle concerns;
   • Advisement to assist client toward another area of focus that meets student;
   • Dismissal from the counselor education program.
   The student may be given a timeline in which to complete these outcomes before continuing in the program. Follow-up with the student takes place through the faculty advisor.

In addition, at the end of each Fall and Spring Semester, faculty meet to discuss each student’s academic and professional performance using the Professional Performance form. These reviews are informed by in and outside of class interactions, as well as performance in the field. Upon completion of the review, each students’ scores are entered into TK20 and all concerns are addressed by the appropriate faculty member or student advisor following the procedures listed above.
4. Once the student advances to Practicum (CEDU 690), counseling skill evaluation begins outside the purview of the faculty. The site must be approved by the faculty before the student begins. Supervisors working with CMHC students must hold the requisite license (e.g., LPC, CMHC, LMFT, LCSW or Licensed Psychologist). School counseling students are supervised by state certified school counselors. All site supervisors must meet CACREP standards (III.C.) The University site supervisor meets with the on-site supervisor to discuss Practicum requirements and to determine if the site is an appropriate fit for the student. Once the site is deemed appropriate, the student must go through any training or other requirements (e.g., fingerprinting, background checks, etc.) before beginning. Students are required to complete the 100-hour Practicum within the semester registered.

5. On-site supervisors communicate regularly with university supervisors, whether by phone, on-line or in-person to discuss the student’s progress. University site supervisors visit the site at least two times during each semester to observe the student’s progress. The site supervisor and student each fill out an evaluation discussing the physical site, the supervision process, and advancement of skills. It is asked that this be done collaboratively so that both the student and the faculty member can learn from the process. Not all sites are successful, but through this type of collaboration (both with students and site supervisors) is where parties learn whether or not the site will provide the necessary direct and indirect clinical hours as well as clinical supervision. Standard grading (A, B, C, and F) applies. A student must receive an A or B in practicum in order to advance to Internship. Counseling faculty advisement will take place if student receives below a B.

6. As the student successfully completes Practicum, they go through similar processes for Internship (CEDU 695). Depending upon the site (e.g., school or agency setting), the student will move or stay at the particular site. Standard grading (A, B, C, and F) is given for both the Practicum and Internship field experience. Counseling faculty advisement will take place if student receives below a B.

Tier/Transition Three – Candidacy to Exit/Graduate

1. Students must apply for graduation and pay a nominal fee.

2. Students must successfully pass the Counselor Education Comprehensive Examination specific to their degree track (CMHC or School). Scores of “Pass/Fail” are determined after each administration. To achieve a passing score, a student needs to pass the majority of each question, passing 4/5 questions for School Counseling and 6/7 questions for Clinical Mental Health Counseling. Students are given three opportunities to succeed, with opportunities for remediation with the faculty member of the curriculum areas they have previously failed.
3. After successfully passing the Comprehensive Exams, the student is asked to fill out an anonymous exit survey on their experience in the counselor education program. This is the final piece of information entered into the assessment system.

It is through this systematic gatekeeping process that a student’s progress can be measured as they meet the different student learning outcomes designed by faculty members. If unsuccessful at any point, the student can be remediated; however, there are specific outcomes that must be met in order to progress to the next tier/transition point. These outcomes are clearly delineated, and, if unsuccessful, the student has the option to self-select out of the program or be removed by faculty and/or administration. It is only through careful and thorough examination that counselor education programs can learn how to better monitor program and student progress.

Counselor Response Categories

These categories are to be used when identifying counselor responses on the transcription requirement for practicum students.

1. Primary Accurate Empathy – involves understanding the experiences, behaviors, and feelings of others as they experience them. It means entering into the experience of clients in order to develop a feeling for their inner world and how they view both this inner world and things around them. Basic empathy gets at relevant surface (not to be confused with superficial) feelings and meanings.

2. Advanced Accurate Empathy – advanced empathetic listening deals with what the client is actually saying or expressing, however confusedly, not with interpretations of what the client is saying. It gets at feelings and meanings that are buried, hidden, or beyond the immediate reach of the client. This skill involves your sharing “hunches” with clients about their experiences, behaviors, and feelings. These hunches can help clients move beyond blind spots and develop needed new perspectives. Some of the forms your hunches take are:
   - Helping clients express clearly what they are implying.
   - Identifying themes in clients’ stories.
   - Connecting islands of experiences, behaviors, feelings.
   - Helping clients draw conclusions from premises.

3. Probing – Prompts and probes are verbal tactics for helping clients talk about themselves and define their problems more concretely and specifically.

4. Simple Acceptance – A response such as “M-hmm” or ”I see” indicating simple agreement, understanding or assent. It does not imply approval or disapproval of counselee’s preceding response.

5. Summarizing – Summarizing, or inviting clients to summarize, challenges them to see central issues more clearly and to move toward action.

6. Immediacy – This skill enables you to discuss your relationship with your clients in two ways with a view to improving the working alliance.
   a. Relationship immediacy: This refers to your ability to discuss with a client your overall relationship with him or her with a view to managing whatever problems exist and maintaining strengths.
   b. Here-and-now immediacy: This refers to your ability to discuss with a client whatever is standing in the way of working together right now.

7. Helper self-sharing – This skill enables you to share your own experience with clients as a way of modeling non-defensive self-disclosure, of helping them move beyond blind spots, and of seeing possibilities for problem-managing action.

8. Confrontation – This skill takes two forms. First of all, challenging the discrepancies, distortions, smoke screens, and games clients use, knowingly or unknowingly, to keep themselves and others from seeing their problem situations and unused potential. Second, challenging clients to move beyond discussion to action.

9. Goal Setting Response – A counselor response that emphasizes mobilizing the client’s effort and energy towards setting several measurable alternative goals.

10. Goal Strategy – A counselor response helping the client identify, choose and implement realistic programs for achieving goals or objectives.

11. Non-Classifiable – A response that does not fit into one of the other categories.

12. Four Attending Skills/Active Listening: Reflecting, Paraphrasing, Clarifying, and Summarizing
